NANKING GOVERNMENT SEEMS TO HAVE BEST OF ARGUMENT

SHANGHAI, Dec. 14.—President Kiang Kai Shek has successfully weathered another serious crisis, and appears to have strengthened his position at the head of the Nanking government, observers of far-eastern affairs believed today in the light of the events of the past week.

Reports from the interior stated that the rebels everywhere were badly disorganized that normal conditions were being quickly restored in the important cities which had been affected by the revolt.

Chiang's position was materially strengthened by the declaration of loyalty made by General Yen Shi-Shan, governor of Shanghai. General Yen had previously been reported supporting the powerful northern military combination of rebels.

General Shih Yu-Shuan, leader of the Pukow rebels who threatened Nanking, also has given in to the Nationalist government, having declared that he was holding himself and his troops at Peking awaiting judgment and punishment.

As a result, the Nanking government is confident of suppressing General Pang Seng-Chi whose troops had attempted to gain control of Hankow in order to install Wang Ching-Wei, left leader who has just returned to China, as president.

Airplanes have played a large part in the suppression of the latest Chinese rebellion. Inasmuch as the Kwangsi and Ironsides troops who threatened Canton were unequipped to cope with aircraft, Nationalist use of bombing planes turned the tide of the battle in that sector. Forty more bombers have been ordered in the United States by the Nationalist government.

These additional bombers will be kept in readiness for the next rebellion, when and if it occurs.

WORKMEN TO BEGIN WIRING NEXT WEEK

The Ohio Utilities Co. workmen will start Monday to put up the wires for the Christmas trees in front of the business houses and will have everything ready so that the merchants can light the trees on Wednesday.

A meeting of the executives of the Pickaway-co Farm Bureau will be held Saturday at 8 p. m. in the Farm Bureau office. A meeting of all livestock members will also be held.

MANY CHOICE SENATE JOBS ARE AWARDED

Grundy To Work With Bob
Lafollette On Manufacturers' Committee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A dozen choice Republican assignments on senate committees were awarded today by the Republican committee-on committees in the senate.

While far more important assignments will be given to other senators, the greatest interest is attached to the appointments that will go to Senator Joseph R. Grundy, the so-called "grand daddy of all lobbyists" now safely enrolled as Pennsylvania's junior senator. Grundy in all probability will be placed on the senate manufacturers' committee, because of his long experience in the manufacturing industry, and this will be his most important assignment.

Placing Grundy on the manufacturers' committee incidentally will bring him under the chairmanship of Senator "Young Bob" Lafollette, an insurgent from Wisconsin, one of those states described by the Pennsylvania as "backward." He may also win a post on the senate committee on banking and currency, which would place him under the chairmanship of Senator Norbeck (R) of S. D., who comes from another of Grundy's "backward states." In order to get any of his legislative proposals through these committees, Grundy will have to win the approval of the two insurgents from his "backward states."

The Pennsylvania "while" he naturally would desire places on the important finance and appropriations committees, will have to wait many years before receiving such assignments.

He now ranks as the senate's newest member and consequently will have to yield to every other member in the body on assignments, because of the seniority rule.

JONES GETS POST
As one Republican leader put it, "Grundy will have to become acclimated to the senate's 'jackasses' before he is eligible for a major committee." The most important post to be awarded by the committee on committees will be the chairmanship of the powerful appropriations committee. This will go to Senator Wesley L. Jones of Wash., under the seniority rule. He already has entered upon his duties.

The promotion of Jones will create a vacancy in the chairmanship of the senate commerce committee, with its control over shipping, radio and waterway legislation. Senator Hiram Johnson of Cal. will get this chairmanship, being in turn succeeded by either Senator Gould, of Maine, or Senator Hatfield, of W. Va., as chairman of the senate immigration committee.

Last reports indicated "Young Bob" Lafollette would get the coveted appointment as junior member of the powerful senate finance committee. Similarly, Senator Robinson, of Indiana, an anti-world court exponent, will go upon the senate foreign relations committee. The vacancies on the appropriations committee will go either to Senator Johnson or to Senator Steiwer, of Oregon. Dozens of lesser assignments also will be made, with Grundy getting the last choice in each.

National Guard Men Heroes of Auburn Prison's Fatal Riot

The men of New York's National Guard, called from their counters and work benches, hastily poured into Auburn and rushed to the scene of Auburn's fatal prison riot, are credited with adroit thinking and heroic action. When Warden Jennings sent out word "For God's sake, give them what they want," Captain McGrath, of Oneida, informed the Prison Chaplain to tell the convicts the gates would be opened. As the men moved forward, using Warden Jennings and other guards as shields, McGrath's company cut loose with gas bombs and moved the prisoners down. They withheld their fire to save the prison guards, then shot two convicts in the van of the rabble. Later the guards stormed a prison barricade, killed five other convicts and ended the rioting.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL LEADERS MEET

The monthly meeting of the county township school superintendents was held at the offices of County Superintendent M. C. Warren Saturday.

DETERMINED EFFORT TO FREE THOMAS MOONEY IS STARTED

BELLAIRE, O., Dec. 14.—A determined effort to exonerate Thomas Mooney, former labor leader and now a "life-terminer" in a California prison, of any connection with the famous Preparedness Day bombing outrage in San Francisco in 1916, will be launched in New York City early next week, it was learned here today.

Two Ohioans, Frank O. Stevens, inmate of the Frank O. Stevens' Home, and Mrs. Dora Smith Monroe, wife of a Shadyside coal-miner, are expected to go to the metropolis to testify before a committee of labor leaders and Mooney's friends, who have maintained that Mooney did not hurl the bomb into the San Francisco parade, with the resultant loss of 10 lives.

Mrs. Monroe, who has sworn to an affidavit which is in possession of International News Service, in which she declared that her brother, Louis Smith, had confessed to her that he was the man who threw the bomb and that Mooney "was not even present," said she would leave for New York City early Tuesday.

Stevens, who brought the case to the forefront by an insistent letter to Senator Schall in Washington that he could obtain evidence to free Mooney, has also been asked to appear in New York City.

Mrs. Monroe's story that her brother confessed to the crime for which Mooney is serving a life term is the truth, in the opinion of George C. McKelvey, prosecuting attorney of Belmont-co.

The prosecutor declared that a published statement crediting him with saying that he had not put faith in the story was unauthorized.

70 ALIENS MAY BE DEPORTED

Illinois Mine Situation Centers On Investigation of Records.

TAYLORVILLE, IL., Dec. 14 — (INS).— With the situation here remaining in status quo insofar as the digging of coal is concerned, interest today centered in the reported attempt to deport aliens aligned with the National Miners Union strike movement.

National Guard officials and county authorities are said to be investigating the record of the 70 or more pickets under arrest, charged with attempting to incite a riot, and a report will be made to federal authorities for possible deportation proceedings. How many will be caught in the drag-net is problematical.

Eight women and two men, arrested at Eulpitt yesterday when they refused to disperse, were at liberty on bond today. The other nine women and five men taken in custody at the same time remain in the county jail unable to furnish bond.

With the county jail crowded by the wholesale arrests of pickets, Sheriff Dunbar found it necessary to place a special guard around the jail to keep the curious on the outside out the move. Some of the jailed pickets shouted to the crowd, "we want bonds, not beans."

LEADERS WILL PASS MEASURE BY NIGHTFALL

Heads Will Prevent Adoption of Three Amendments—
Goes to Hoover Next

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON
INS Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The American people were assured a $160,000,000 tax reduction gift for Christmas when senate leaders agreed today to pass the administration's measure before nightfall.

Three proposals to amend were pending, but administration leaders were rallying votes to prevent their adoption because any change in the resolution will necessitate its return to the House. If passed by the Senate in its present form the measure will go direct to the White House for President Hoover's approval. In either event the tax paying public will get its tax reduction gift before Christmas, although federal taxes will not be due until next March 15.

The Senate already has rejected one of the pending proposals, the McMaster plan to use $150,000,000 to reduce freight rates on wheat, cattle and other farm products. This proposal, entirely eliminating tax reduction, was rejected by a vote of 12 to 80. Seven Republicans, Blaine, Brookhart, Frazier, Howell, McMaster, Norbeck and Nye, and five Democrats, Blease, Harris, Heflin, Sheppard and Smith, voted for it.

Senator McMaster, (R), of South Dakota, its author sponsored his plan again as an amendment to the bill. Its rejection was assured, since in its new form it would provide for tax reduction as well as a slash in freight rates on farm products.

A second substitute proposal, suggested by Senator Thomas, (D) of Oklahoma, would eliminate tax reduction and apply the $160,000,000 treasury surplus to building good roads and public buildings. Thomas would use $100,000,000 on good roads, and $60,000,000 on new federal buildings around the country. Both appropriations would be in addition to the regular sums allotted for both purposes by the budget.

The Thomas plan was certain to meet defeat, since administration leaders are committed to using the surplus for tax reduction. They also contended the regular appropriations for good roads and public buildings would take care of all the public work the government can afford at this time.

OFFERS AMENDMENT

An amendment by Senator Couzens, of Michigan, would allow an additional $68,000,000 reduction on the tax on capital losses and gains from 12 1/2 to 10 percent. He would make this slash applicable in 1931 on the gains or losses for the year, 1930. In this manner the reduction would not take effect on the outcome of the recent downward trend of prices on the New York stock exchange. It, too, was opposed by administration leaders, and seemed likely to be defeated.

A fourth plan, sponsored by Senator Brookhart, (R) of Iowa, to grant additional reductions in the corporation tax, applicable to corporations having incomes of $28,000 or less, likewise was opposed by those in charge of the bill. The Brookhart amendment would impose on corporations the regular normal tax and surtax now applied to individual incomes under the $28,000. This would mean a reduction to their taxes from the 11 percent rate, carried in the resolution, to the regular individual income sliding scale ranging from one half of one percent of four per cent maximum. It undoubtedly will be rejected, because it would class for a slash in taxes for exceeding the limits announced by the treasury.

There were indications the resolution would be adopted sometime during the afternoon. It has the endorsement of both Republican and Democratic leaders.

This proposal, entirely eliminating tax reduction, was rejected by a vote of 12 to 60. Seven Republicans, Blaine, Brookhart, Frazier, Howell, McMaster, Norbeck and Nye, and five Democrats, Bleasie, Harris, Hefflin, Sheppard and Smith, voted for it.

Senator McMaster (R.), of South Dakota, its author sponsored his plan again as an amendment to the bill. Its rejection was assured, since in its new form it would provide for tax reduction as well as a slash in freight rates on farm products.

A second substitute proposal, suggested by Senator Thomas (D) of Oklahoma, would eliminate tax reduction and apply the $160,000,000 treasury surplus to building good roads and public buildings. Thomas would use $100,000,000 on good roads, and $60,000,000 on new federal buildings around the country. Both appropriations would be in addition to the regular sums allotted for both purposes by the budget.

The Thomas plan was certain to meet defeat, since administration leaders are committed to using the surplus for tax reduction. They also countered the regular appropriations for good roads and public buildings would take care of all the public work the government can afford at this time.

OFFERS AMENDMENT

An amendment by Senator Couzens, of Michigan, would allow an additional $68,000,000 reduction on the tax on capital losses and gains from 12 1-2 to 10 per cent. He would make this slash applicable in 1931 on the gains or losses for the year, 1930. In this manner the reduction would not take effect on the outcome of the recent downward trend of prices on the New York stock exchange. It, too, was opposed by administration leaders, and seemed likely to be defeated.

A fourth plan, sponsored by Senator Brookhart, (R) of Iowa, to grant additional reductions in the corporation tax, applicable to corporations having incomes of $28,000 or less, likewise was opposed by those in charge of the bill. The Brookhart amendment would impose on corporations the regular normal tax and surtax now applied to individual incomes under the $28,000. This would mean a reduction to their taxes from the 11 percent rate, carried in the resolution, to the regular individual income sliding scale ranging from one half of one percent of four per cent maximum. It undoubtedly will be rejected, because it would class for a slash in taxes for exceeding the limits announced by the treasury.

There were indications the resolution would be adopted sometime during the afternoon. It has the endorsement of both Republican and Democratic leaders.

Circleville Loses Game To Marysville, 19-12

TIGERS HOLD LEAD AT HALF BUT OFFENSE FAILS IN FINAL

Marysville Given 28 Free Throws While Locals Get 11 Chances—Score 8 to 4 at Halftime In Favor of Guthrie-men But Failure To Make Easy Shots Causes Downfall—Washington C. H. Next.

Holding a lead of eight to four at half-time and outplaying their fast opponents in practically every department of the game, Circleville high school basketball tossers lost a tough battle to Marysville Friday evening by a 19 to 12 score when their defense failed to function and their offense cracked decidedly in the second half of the tilt at Marysville.

The Tiger tossers showing their best passing attack of the season, and with big Zeke Zeimer winning the tipoff nearly every time, passed, dribbled, guarded and completely outplayed Coach Kingsmore's crew in the first two sessions of play. But when the teams trotted out for the second half it was a different story. With three of the men having two fouls against them starting the second half, it is possible that fear of committing the third and fourth personals was in the players' mind for Marysville chalked up nine points in the third quarter while the locals got one of Zeimer's foul tosses.

USE PIVOT PLAY
Marysville's well drilled offense with Lee McMahon, 1929-30 veteran acting as pivot man in a pretty set play, worked to perfection and the Marysville team had scored six more points to Circleville's three in the final session.

Two factors materially hurt Circleville and Black chances. One was inability of the players to make a number of pot shots, which should never have been missed. At least five times one member of the squad by a beautiful cut, eluded his guard and dribbled into the net only to miss the shot when he stopped just before shooting, the ball, causing it to fall back to the court. The second reason for defeat was the removal of Zeimer and Russell from the contest on personal fouls late in the third period and early in the fourth. Circleville was given 11 chances for points on free throws, while Marysville took the charity line no less than 28 times. Out of 15 free throws in the first half only two were scored by the Marysville district champs. But in the second half seven throws were chalked up in 13 attempts.

MARYSVILLE LUCKY
It isn't very often that a high school coach will slap himself on the back and thank his lucky stars that the game is over, but that is just what Coach Kingsmore did.

MOUNT STERLING BEATS FAIRFIELD

The Mt. Sterling basketball team defeated Fairfield Friday in a fast contest by the score of 30-23.

The Mounts showed the best team play and a keener shooting eye than their opponents.

Holland's Bulb Fields

The miles and miles of bulb fields in Holland are a rare sight in spring. But the Dutch grower is no sentimentalist; the bulb fields would soon disappear, on unprofitable industry, if he did not send his workers out, day by day, to cut out the full blooms and thereby strengthen the bulbs for future flowering. The tourist is welcome to see as many flowers as he can carry away from the "refuse pile" beside every patch.

Deception on Both Sides

Those who advocate annihilation of the Santa Claus myth would destroy the fondest deception in the world, concealment by the parents of the fact that he doesn't exist and concealment by the children of their knowledge that he doesn't, each for the other's pleasure.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Sure, this country is a "going concern," only there seems to be a little doubt as to where it's going.

Friday evening. He told Coach Guthrie that the contest was the luckiest his team ever won.

VLEREBOME MUSKIE STAR

Local Boy Scores All Five of His Team's Goals—Defeated By Ashland.

Although the fast Muskingum college basketball team was defeated by Ashland Friday 28-18 holding a lead of 9 to 7 at half-time, George Vlerobome, former Circleville high school athlete, was the star of the contest.

Muskingum was held to five buckets from the floor and Vlerobome made all five of those.

GOOD PORCH BOXES DO NOT HIBERNATE

Filled With Evergreens They May be Kept Out Through out the Winter

Porch boxes needn't retreat to the basement as cumbersome nuisances void of beauty or use, just because summer has fled. They may be even more effective in the winter than in the summer, says Victor H. Ries, extension floriculturist for the Ohio State university.

Evergreens are the secret of the all-year porch box program. Sometimes it is advisable, says Ries, to buy cheap ones and discard them in the spring. If more expensive ones are installed it is quite feasible to put them out in the yard in April. The cheaper evergreens for porch box use are Norway Spruce, American arbor vitae, Austrian pine and red pine. These are all tall growing shrubs and should be used as future shade trees if they are set out in the spring, Ries cautions.

Lower growing evergreens, which are more expensive, are Pfitzer juniper, Mugho pine, Japanese yew, prostrate juniper and hemlock. English ivy and the winter creeper, Euonymus radicans, are also effective. So says Ries: are yuccas and the common myrtle or periwinkle.

Clerks Have to Sing

A German department storekeeper in Smyrna, Turkey in Asia makes all the helping sing. They must sing from the counter girl to the floorwalker, even if there is only one customer in the store. The salesgirl must sing while she is waiting on the customer. She can only stop to give the price of the goods or to answer a question. It is catching. During the busy hours singing captivates even the customers.

ASHVILLE, JACKSON GAME FEATURES COUNTY TILTS

Ashville's one point victory over the Jackson-twp basket tossers featured Friday's county high school basketball games when the Kauber-coached men chased up a 21 to 20 victory.

Ashville took an early lead and held it throughout although Jackson almost overcame them at the end.

Jackson girls were swamped by Ashville, 43 to 5. The games were played at Jackson.

Deercreek boys again showed their power when they tramped through Walnut-twp team for a 28 to 12 victory.

All the Williamsport boys played well with Anderson and Tomlinson again carrying the brunt of the attack. Williamsport girls were decisively beaten by the well coached Walnut girls by a score of 37 to 14. The games were played at Walnut.

The Scioto-twp boys showed real strength when they wallowed Darby-twp by a count of 16 to 3. The game was a defensive one with Scioto holding a continuous edge.

The Scioto girls edged the Darby girls by an 8 to 6 score in a game which was closely fought throughout. Darby-twp was the scene of these games.

New Holland's Fighting Dutchmen continued their winning ways by trouncing the Monroe-twp lads by a 22-12 score at Monroe-twp. Honors for both teams were divided.

The New Holland girls were defeated by the crack Monroe girls by a score of 17-16.

Perry-twp boys defeated the Muhlenberg boys 15-19 in a hotly contested overtime period.

The Perry girls won their game from Muhlenberg 26 to 18. The games were played at Muhlenberg.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The Christian Spirit in Industry, Deuteronomy 24:14-15; Ephesians 6:5-9. I. Timothy 6:17-19 for Sunday, Dec. 15.

The Bible does not attempt to work out technical solutions to industrial problems nor to give judicial decisions on them, but it furnishes such principles and presents such right attitudes a will enable well-meaning men possessing the Christian spirit to work out their solution in mutual justice and brotherhood.

V. 14. "Thou shalt not oppress a hired servant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren or of thy sojourners that are in the land within thy gates." In our present economic order with wealth and power congested in a few hands, there is great opportunity for those in power to take advantage of those subject to them. If we would consider others our brothers, we would possess a spirit that would save us from selfishness and hardness of heart which would provide justice to all.

V. 15. "In this day thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down upon it (for he is poor and getteth his heart upon it); lest he cry against thee unto Jehovah and it be sin unto thee." Giving the laborer his hire insures men their just share of the products of their labors; otherwise there may follow resentment and anger which may result in rebellion and a strike likely to disturb public order or explode into a social revolution. Delayed payments for public service may work cruel hardships.

V. 5. "Servants, be obedient unto them that according to the flesh are your masters, with fear and trembling, in singleness of heart, as unto Christ." The Old Testament recognized slavery as a condition to be overcome and presented the working principle of entry; the one who obeys civil law is the one who best enjoys civil liberty, the one who obeys the moral laws enjoys best moral liberties. In obeying God we become free.

V. 6. "Not in the way of eyeservice as men-pleasers; but as servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart; with good will doing service, as unto the Lord and not unto men." The idea and spirit has crept into some men that the less work they do for their employers the better off they will be, as it is supposed this leaves that much more work for them to do; honesty calls for a full day's pay. The man who possesses a high type of character is questioned. There is a great financial value in the religious output of the church in character formation that ought to call forth a more liberal support of the church.

V. 9. "And ye masters, do the same things unto them, and forbear threatening, knowing that he that is both their Master and yours is in heaven, and there is no respect of persons with him." Masters are to act in the same Christian way as they expect their servants to act; masters and servants are mutually helpful when all are subject to the will of God.

So it is that labor and capital are mutually beneficial.

Vs. 17-19. "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor have their hope set on the uncertainty of riches, but on God who giveth us richly all things to enjoy. That they do good, that they be rich in works, that they may be ready to distribute, willing to communicate, that they may lay hold on the life which is life indeed." Wealth is so much stored-up service, the very blood and bone of men minted in coin, and therefore it should not be wasted in mere luxury and pleasure but should be turned back into channels of human welfare.

Mr. Ford and Religion
When asked his reaction to religion, Henry Ford, in a recent interview with Cameron Wilkie of the Christian Herald, said the following:

"Religion is like electricity. I do not understand electricity, but I am deeply interested in it. I want to know all I can about it. I see its power and its results. I see it turn the wheels of industry. I know that it lights up the dark places of the earth. I know that it warms our hearts and that it makes the world better. I see and admit its effectiveness, even though I do not profess to understand it at all."

"You can take the sermon on the mount, put it down into industry anywhere, and it will work. You don't need to work up to it. You can slap it right down anywhere, today, tomorrow, in any business and it will work completely. You don't have to build up to the sermon on the mount. That sermon on the mount is action-religion put into action."

Fanaticism consists in redoubling your effort when you have forgotten your aim.

COXEY'S RECIPE

"All the prosperity of the country," says "General" Jacob S. Coxe, "is in the hands of the Big Five B's—the banker, the bondholder, the broker, the bootlegger and the burglar." Which wise crack is more clever than true. We would all be prosperous, he thinks, if Congress, instead of foolishly issuing bonds to pay the war debt, had simply printed more banknotes.

He has a wonderful plan for insuring general and profitable employment, which he originated back in 1894 and is now brushing up to fit the present situation. Let the government issue "legal tender money without interest," distributing it around the country to pay for new public works. He would also provide a community bank where citizens could borrow without interest, paying only one-half of 1 per cent a year for service charge.

It's fine to have the Coxey to show, by contrast, what clear economic thinking is.

The well-meaning old "General" doesn't seem to have learned anything since he was arrested for walking on the grass on the White House lawn. If printing more money were for use to prosperity, post-war Europe would have been far more prosperous than America, and Russia would have topped us all. When it finally cost about a trillion dollars for a street car ride, it dawned on European Coxey that it doesn't do for governments to make counterfeit money any more than it does for individuals.

STUNTING NOISE

Rats have never been considered especially sensitive to noise. But Dr. Laird of Colgate University had a hunch that maybe they were affected by it as human beings are. So he tried assorted noises on rats for the benefit of humans. This is a useful process, because it saves time. The experimenter can get as much result from a white rat in one year as he can from a human being in 20 or 30 years.

The scientist found that rats permitted to lead a quiet life ate 2 to 3 per cent more food than rats that were bothered by electrical disturbances made to imitate city noises. And they grew 10 per cent faster. So the rats that lived quietly grew bigger than the rats that lived in a racket.

Dr. Laird draws a parallel between these two sets of rats, artificially brought up under city conditions and country conditions, and children brought up in the city and country. The country children, he observes, grow larger than the city children. He thinks it is largely the noise that makes the difference.

ANOTHER LITTLE ANNOYANCE

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXXI.

IT was Stefano who fired the shots which Nathalie heard as she turned at the gate and headed the yellow roadster for Brookville.

From the position in which he sat facing Niccolo, it was possible for him to be aware of any person at the door or on the stairs or in the hall without relaxing his watch on Niccolo.

As Stefano understood Ferris's plan in respect to Nathalie, all Ferris wanted of her was to have her sell him The First. If she refused to sell, Ferris, beaten, could do nothing but go away. He could not understand at all why Niccolo had been placed on guard over him. He asked him finally, speaking in Italian as before:

"Niccolo," he said, "why are we sojourning here indoors on so pleasant a day?"

Niccolo shrugged his shoulders. "Niccolo," said Stefano, "observe that each of my hands is still in a pocket. Holding what—do you not know. Now let us imagine that you were a candle."

The man's face became miserable. "Signor," he implored, "I will tell you a little. The signora above must not be permitted to go from here and have negotiations with the banker Signor Pound. That is as much as has been confided to me."

Stefano made him no answer for just then the part of one eye of his which was not on Niccolo saw a feminine hand on the banister rail and he knew that Nathalie was creeping downstairs.

He knew that Niccolo would turn if he heard her—turn certainly when he heard her start the motor car outside the door; for Stefano was sure that she would try to gain it and speed away.

While she was still on the stairs he calculated the distance between him and Niccolo and considered the probable weight of the chair on which he sat.

As Nathalie ran down the last of the staircase Niccolo started and turned his head to look out in the hall. Stefano sprang from the chair he was on and threw it.

The chair hit Niccolo and he went over. Instantly Stefano was on him, stunned him with a champagne bottle, and took his pistol.

He ran outside and, when he heard another car start from the stables, waited until it was at the gate and turning the way Nathalie had gone. Then he fired two shots each at the two rear tires. Both tires blew out, but the car continued on its course with its rear wheels flat.

He could see, though, as he watched it driven away, that it could never catch up with Nathalie. Then it stopped a few hundred yards down the road and a second car came out of a grove of evergreens and the men who were in the first car all sprang out and swarmed into the second. When that car had gone Stefano ran to the car that had been abandoned and drove off at that time to the first telephone available, where he called up Monty Delaine and then Mrs. Pemberton Swann.

Nathalie gave her car all the gas it would take and still stay on the road when she heard the revolver shots behind her. It was a car designed for speed and she was a fine driver.

It gave her a sense of triumph that she was ahead and that the road was clear. As she knew the country well she began to plan the journey to her aunt's by by-roads instead of main roads when she became convinced that the motor behind her had stopped.

She slowed sufficiently to be able to glance back once, and saw that those who were in pursuit of her were leaving the car they had started in and crowding into a fresh one. Then she sent her car ahead as fast as she dared drive it. She began to be aware that the motor behind her had power be there before her—that if it was not, there was a chance that she might reach the crossing before it. If she could put the oncoming train between her and the car behind, she might hope to get out of sight of her pursuers while the train went by and so possibly shake them off.

There were no gates at the crossing for the road she was traveling was little used. She contrived to look behind her again, and saw that the pursuing car was still gaining. Looking ahead, she discovered the train approaching in full view.

She made a swift calculation of its speed and her own speed, her nerves entirely steady and her mind clear, for she had driven high powered cars ever since she was old enough. She decided she had enough advantage to cross ahead of it and did not look at again as she shot her car across the railroad and beat the train by fifty feet.

The engineer pulled frantically at the cord of his whistle and then at the valve of the train's brakes just as she was in the train's path. The locomotive slowed sufficiently to proceed on past the crossing too late for Nathalie to see the time when the crossing was again clear.

When the expert driver who was at the wheel of the spot forward, one more became within a half mile of a fork where the road divided and afforded him no guarantee of what way the fugitive had taken.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

The Chair Hit Niccolo and He Went Over. Instantly Stefano Was Upon Him.

too and was holding the distance between them, even if it was not gaining. And it came to her that she had no driver's license and that if she continued at her present speed along any main highway she would surely be halted or overtaken by a policeman. The road she was on led straight to a main thoroughfare, so at the next turn she swerved into a second country road.

At a slight turn she looked back and saw that the car in the rear was gaining on her. Frantically she stepped on the gas—then suddenly, as the grade of her road dropped, she saw far down it the signal warning of a railroad crossing. The sound of a train whistle reached her ears.

Her mind cleared by the clearness of the whistle, and the train was approaching and the truck which she was driving toward and that if it was not stopped it would mind clear, for she had driven high powered cars ever since she was old enough. She decided she had enough advantage to cross ahead of it and did not look at again as she shot her car across the railroad and beat the train by fifty feet.

The engineer pulled frantically at the cord of his whistle and then at the valve of the train's brakes just as she was in the train's path. The locomotive slowed sufficiently to proceed on past the crossing too late for Nathalie to see the time when the crossing was again clear.

DR. COPELAND SAYS— REGARD TEACHING OF PREVENTIVE HYGIENE

If Practical Use Is Not Made of Facts Learned About Right Living We Might As Well Be Living in the Stone Age, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

LONG ago the Greeks brought the science and art of health building to its highest perfection. But with the evidence of civilization in the case of both Greeks and Romans, luxury and self-indulgence brought vices which caused the downfall of those nations.

It is remarkable at what high level hygiene was in those times. In Greece, prenatal care of the mother was practiced with the utmost diligence. The diet and general physical culture of girls were regulated with the view of preparing them for motherhood. Convinced of the great value of right food, fresh air and exercise, both Greeks and Romans regulated and controlled the food supplies of their nations. Their prowess at games and physical culture has never been surpassed.

We may emulate the ancient Greeks not only in beauty of form and radiant health, but in physical and mental power. Physical and mental development go hand-in-hand. The Greeks knew the value of sun and air baths and the style of dress allowed the free circulation of air around their bodies.

We might heed the animal world in right living. When an animal is sick, it knows instinctively how to treat itself. It abstains from food, rests, takes water or sand baths, its own kind of massage, and eats healing herbs and plants. Primitive man learned much from animals in all these matters. Right food, air and sunshine mean everything in developing health, and the animals knew it before we did.

Today we have public health centers for the study and prevention of diseases. For many years our doctors and hospitals have concentrated on cures for disease, but in these modern days there are great movements for disease prevention and for health maintenance.

In every great city are medical schools and laboratories where important research into every known disease is going on every day. Preventive measures for the public good are being recommended constantly. In every section of the country are great hospitals and clinics where preventive medicine is carried on, open to people in every walk of life.

But, after all, what do all these activities amount to unless we apply what is learned? Unless practical use is made of the new knowledge we might as well be living ten centuries ago.

We should be more interested in a discovery for the prevention of some common disease than in something relating to aviation. It means much more to each one of us personally, I fear, however, that many persons are utterly unconcerned over health matters.

But you should see them when they are sick! They just beg for something to stop the pain. Important as all the curative things are, far more important is to know how to escape disease. It pays to give heed to everything having to do with the prevention of sickness.

"LET'S WAKE UP OR DIE RIGHT"

By John Hegele

Are we going to let the pep club idea drop out without even giving it a try? Let's "make up or die right." I have an idea that would make Y Day school look sick when they come down here January 17 from the "big city up the Sooto Trail" for our first game. They think we are a bunch of dead stumps, but let's surprise them.

What is the matter with the Athletic Association? We haven't heard anything about it since we elected officers and paid up. Let's make the Association useful by turning it into a pep club. Here is my idea of starting it. The officials, Loring Davis, Maynard McCallister and Doris Peters, meet and make plans for it. Have the Association members meet and practice yells. Plans for entertainment between halves and before each game. Have as many members as possible yell. See that they stick together. It is also advisable to have a teacher there as supervisor, because not one of the officials could be at hand as each will be down there on that gym floor fighting for our school.

But who will be the cheerleaders? Someone might ask. That is easy to solve. Appoint two to assist ours if they need them.

If this idea works out, as I think it will, we shall not only "pep up" the basketball squad but also the whole city of Circleville. If we can't organize a pep club to yell for a team, we don't deserve to feel proud when they win, and certainly should feel ashamed to crab when they lose.

Let's get busy and start something. If the officials don't intend to do anything they should say so and be done with it.

WHAT COURSES ARE EASY?

By securing official data of number of pupils in each subject, the inquiring reporter has been able to determine by approximate percentage the difficulty of various high school studies.

Fellow students, do you find your "snap course" here?

According to the percentage of students making the honor roll, according to their difficulty:

Those in which less than five percent make honors: advanced bookkeeping, advanced geometry, stenography, bookkeeping, business English, and geography.

Those in which five to ten percent made honors: arithmetic, manual training, and occupations.

Those in which, 5 to 20 percent made honors: algebra, French, modern history, and American history.

Those in which 20 to 25 percent made honors: freshmen—Latin, physics, social civics, junior English and English literature.

Those in which 30 to 35 percent made honors: journalism and Cicero.

Home economics with 42 percent and office training with 89 percent seem to be the easiest subjects.

According to the percentage of students failing the following subjects are arranged as to their difficulty:

Stenography and advanced bookkeeping fail 30 to 35 percent.

Geometry, freshmen Latin and sophomore English fail 25 to 30 percent.

Bookkeeping, geography, modern history, and Caesar fail 15 to 20 percent.

Algebra and Cicero fail 10 to 15 percent.

Advanced algebra, arithmetic, freshmen English, junior English, and modern history fail 10 to 5 percent.

American history, French, general science, advanced geometry and manual training fail five to one percent.

The easiest courses in which we usually find no failures seem to be: English literature, social civics, office training, occupations, physics, journalism, home economics, business English and advanced French.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS FOR JACK, BUT ROBBER LOOKS HIS WAY

Jack Chaffin, sophomore, was a witness to the robbery of the Davidson Hardware store Saturday, Dec. 7. Jack says that he wasn't frightened when the robber, who had been looking over some guns, loaded one and told Mr. Davidson that he would take the gun and told Jack not to follow him. Jack said, "If the burglar hadn't been looking my way, I would have jumped on him." At a ole fight, Jack.

The sophomore class celebrated with a big Christmas party at the high school Friday evening. The chief object of this function was to let the freshmen aware of the fact that they couldn't put anything over on the sophomores, since the yearlings had already enjoyed their party.

The guests gathered in the auditorium, where a delightful program was rendered.

The program opened with a piano solo by Dorothy M. Glick. Cornet solo, Charles Plum; dialogue, Waldo Hilyard and Dudley Mills; saxophone solo, Gaylord Rose; music contest; vocal solo, Nina Denman, selection, orchestra; vocal solo, Fred Watts; piano solo, Centh Carothers; piano solo, Marie Richey, clarinet solo, Waldo Hilyard; dialogue, Alice Briggs and Dorothy L. Glick; violin solo, Gerald McCreary; piano solo Donald Waite; Fimis, orchestra.

The guests were then escorted to the gym where a delightful lunch of strawberry jello, minced ham sandwiches, stuffed olives, potato chips and cocoa was served.

The faculty guests included, Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fetherlin, Misses Velma Watson and Margaret Mattinson and Mr. Fred Watts.

ALL STATE CHORUS ANNOUNCED

At the State Teachers Association meeting at Columbus in December the All State Chorus will again be a feature. The program will be given in the auditorium of Central high school at 7 45 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 26.

It seemed advisable this year to limit the size of the chorus to 600 members. The maximum allowed from each school is 16.

Due to the splendid quality of work done by the pupils from Circleville high school in previous years, it has been allowed the full quota of 16. The following are those who will enter Peggy Courtwright, Mary Mae Haswell, Ellen Leist, Lucille Kirkwood, Margie Hunsicker, Pauline Acord, Helen Yates, Jean Crowe, Howard Greeno, Earl Milliron, Edwin Haacker, Robert Rector, James Brown, Hugh Cartright, John Heiskell, Charles Kirkpatrick, and Helen K. Wittich, director.

CLUBS TO ATTEND EPISCOPAL CHURCH SERVICES

The decision of the Hi-Y to attend the Christmas Eve service at the Episcopal church was made at the meeting held Tuesday noon in the physics department. An invitation for the Girl Reserves to join in attendance to the service has been extended.

The regular program committee composed of Malcolm Russell, Richard Nickerson and Edgar Clark was advised to begin the preparation of a program for this year's Christmas visit to the Home and Hospital.

Treasurer Richard Nickerson read the day's scripture lesson and Clarence Barnhart led a discussion of school sportsmanship.

MARK AND PACK RIGHT BEFORE MAILING PACKAGES

For those People Who Think They Could Put Out A Better Paper Than The Staff of The Present Year Does, We Print This:

Getting out a paper.

Getting out a paper is a picnic.

If we print jokes, people say we are silly or vulgar.

If we don't, they say we are adolescent and too serious.

If we publish original matter, they say we lack variety.

If we print things from other papers, we are lazy.

If we are not rustling news, we are not attending to business.

If we don't print the contributions we lack appreciation, and the paper belongs to some society.

If we do print them, the paper is full of junk.

Like as some one will say we stole this from some other paper—so we did.

"DON'T FEEL LIKE THAT"

If the world is waiting for the sunrise,

Cheer up; it's sure to have a place for you;

It's only lazy people who surmise, That every day is Monday Blue.

Just keep your courage, neath your hat,

Don't feel discouraged; all will soon be right;

Blue? Take my advice: Don't feel like that,

The dark cloud is lined with silver bright.

Aim high; the higher, ideal's sure a work-rack,

And a tonic to a failing strength and mind;

Lonesome? Keep saying, "Don't feel like that,"

You'll see friends aren't hard to find.

Don't keep thinking of the things you lack,

Sorrow comes with riches so they say;

Doubtful? Don't feel like that, Tomorrow is another day.

'Tisn't hard to deal out a plain fact

To the people of this day and age; When understood, the motto "Don't feel like that,"

Is good advice, though it may be the rage.

Mrs. Arthur McNeal, Helen Kinsler.

DAUGHTERS IN HOTEL PROGRAM

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wallace and daughter, Marvene, and Mrs. Elmer Clifton and daughter, Betty, motored to Columbus Thursday evening where the children took part in a program at the Seneca hotel. Miss Stella Becker, teacher of dancing presented a group of her pupils at this time for the pleasure of the Columbus Business Women's club, who were banqueting at the hotel Thursday night.

DANCE HERE ON DECEMBER 27.

The only public dance, to date, that will be given in Circleville during the holiday season will be the Roundtown Mistletoe dance at the Elks on Friday, Dec. 27, at the Memorial hall. Invitations will be out the first of next week.

This will be a night when faithful swains will be rewarded, for the ladies are asked on the invitations to bring their boy friends. So the non-chalant young gallants of the city had best be starting belated attentions upon the girls of their choice if they crave an invitation to this dance.

The girls will have the upper hand, and are throwing a big holiday party, to which they will invite the light steppers of the community.

Good music has already been engaged and the dance will be one of the big affairs of the week. The hours will be from nine until one with lunch at mid-night.

Miss Elizabeth Roth is chairman. She will be assisted by Miss Margaret Weldon, Miss Evangeline Smith, Miss Martha Wilder, Miss Hulda Seyfert, Miss Mary Radcliff, Miss Anne Bennett, Miss Evelyn Adkins and Mrs. Clark Will.

DINNER BRIDGE FOR HIGH SCHOOL SET

The attention of the high school set was centered Thursday evening on the dinner-bridge at which Miss Zelma Hoffman was hostess at her home on S. Court-st. The red and green of the Yuletide, decorated the rooms and the small tables on which an elaborate three course dinner was served, were also decorated in these colors. Santa Claus with big packs and smiling faces leaned smugly against the water goblets, which gleamed from the light of Christmas candles in the center of each table. The candle holders were crystal, tied with her tulle.
